

Privacy Policy

Whenever a visitor to Katha website and/or social media platforms, registers with us and utilizes any of the options provided therein by signing-in, the site may automatically collect personally identifiable information about the visitor which may include details such as name, email address, occupation, personal interests etc. We may also receive such information from third parties.

Katha respects the privacy of all who visit our website and is strongly committed to maintaining the anonymity of those using our website. Katha would like to assure all visitors to our website/ social media platforms that the personally identifiable information collected would be used only:

1. for the purpose of customizing the contents seen by the visitors,
2. for fulfilling the requests of the visitors for certain services,
3. for contacting the visitor with respect to the services to be provided,

Katha confirms its firm commitment not to disclose, sell or rent any of the personally identifiable information of the visitors to our website/social media platforms to anyone.

Katha hereby confirms that information of the visitors to our website/social media platforms would be shared with any other companies and/or people only when:

1. We have your consent to share such information.
2. We respond to any subpoenas, court orders or legal processes.
3. We observe that your actions on our websites/social media platforms violate the terms of service.

This Privacy Policy is subject to modifications/amendments from time to time and such changes would be posted on our website immediately and the significant changes, if any, would be highlighted on our home page.

If you have any questions and/or suggestions, you may please email us at: info@katha.org