

creating a nation where every child reads!

 KATHA

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S
REPORT 2016-17

“There is a huge need for effective reading in India; nearly 50% of our children in schools cannot read well. This seriously affects their ability to stay in school and become contributing members of society. Katha is on a mission to change things for our children. Bringing reading to every child and thereby building a nation where every child counts means uniting with like-minded people and organizations, and supplementing the government’s effort.”

– Ms Geeta Dharmarajan, Founder-President, Katha

Dear Friends,

We started the year 2016-17 with mixed feelings – excitement coupled with concern. The excitement of looking at our many wonderful children who redefine what’s possible by the minute, and with a deep concern over the enormity of challenges that lie ahead of us, the obstacles that most children in India still face in reading and learning.

A UNESCO report in early 2016 pointed to the fact that despite efforts on the part of the Government and its civil society partners, children in India are still battling their inability to read, and India would be half a century late in achieving its universal education goals. Out of the 300 million primary school-going children in India, 50% cannot read well! The worrisome findings of the report brought about a moment of reflection for us. We wondered whether we have done enough, particularly when so many of our children are struggling to read as we speak...? What does the future hold for these children? What more can be done for them? Have we truly reached as many children as we possibly can? These questions begged answers and these thoughts spurred our efforts to do better, do more, and reach deeper into the sections of the population that needed us.

After a lot of critical thinking and soul-searching, Katha’s Founder-President Ms Geeta Dharmarajan ideated and initiated the 300 MILLION CHALLENGE, a nation-wide campaign to bring all 5-10 year old children into reading for fun and for meaning at an early age so they do well in school and are prepared to bring change to themselves and society, leading to sustainability for the people and the planet. Through the year, we partnered with other like-minded organizations that are committed to the cause, and helped them leverage individual strengths and expertise to bring every child to the road to reading.

Today, we’re at a watershed moment. The valuable learning that we have gleaned over the past three decades only drives us to expand and excel for a better future for all our children. Bringing the 300 million school-going children into the ambit of reading is a mammoth task that requires sustained efforts and resources. Our need for support, both from the Government and from our partners, will be greater in the coming years – we have to think of ways to innovate, strengthen and grow this programme. As we realise the magnitude of our efforts, we are only humbled. And we know that together with our supporters and partners we can be more innovative and achieve our mission in a strategic manner.

We are thankful to the many hands that stretched out to support us both financially and morally. But the enormity of our programme always necessitates the support of contributors, mainly from the perspective of sustainability. We realise that we wouldn’t have come this far without the support of those who helped us along these years – be it donors, volunteers, governments, our own teams, and our beloved writers, illustrators and translators. Our special thanks go out to them.

We are also extremely grateful to GuideStar India for honouring us with the GuideStar India NGO Transparency Award 2016. Katha has been rooted in the ethos of transparency and accountability, and getting an award for something that all of us at Katha live by, makes the Award extra special.

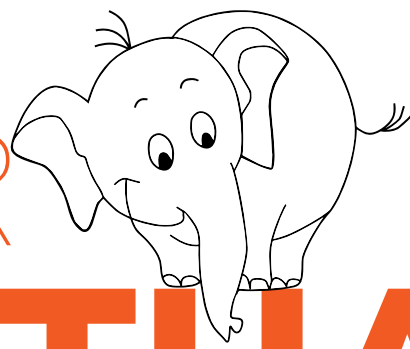

I would personally like to thank our Founder-President, Ms Geeta Dharmarajan, under whose illustrious leadership we have been marching ahead with a clarity of purpose. She constantly inspires us to better the best that we can do for our children.

On behalf of Katha, I present you the Annual Report for the year 2016-17 with the aim to give you the crux of our programmes, our reach, our progresses and plans, our achievements and our financial credentials. With the hope that your support towards millions of children will continue during this journey, I also invite new members to join our cause and help us meet the 300 Million Challenge in a speedy and efficient manner. Let us actively be involved in building a society of hope and promise. Let us together be the reason for relevant and responsive education and reading for all our children – regardless of which side of the many divides they’re on!

OUR KATHA

AN ORGANIZATIONAL OVERVIEW

Our “Katha” started in 1988, when our first volunteer found a friend – a fat and friendly elephant called Tamasha. Tamasha has set the fun and friendly tone and culture since then, helping make Katha the storytellers for the nation.

We at Katha endeavour to spread the joy of reading, knowing, and living, amongst children and adults, the common reader and the neo-literate. Formally registered as a society on 8 September 1989, Katha has striven to establish a code of excellence in all that it does, to enhance the quality of life in every project it has attempted. A non-profit organization, Katha works with equal dedication and commitment through well-defined programmes in areas of literacy, and education; in literature, culture and translation.

THE 300 MILLION CHALLENGE

creating a nation where every child counts

According to a UNESCO report of September 2016, "India will be half a century late in achieving its universal education goals." Hence, we will achieve universal primary education only by 2050, universal lower secondary education only by 2060, and universal upper secondary education only by 2085.

Without a reading population, India will be unable to sustain a strong rate of growth. In a country like India, it is a monumental task to ensure that every child is reading for fun and for meaning... a task that the government cannot accomplish alone.

This is where Katha steps in... We try to work closely with like-minded organizations and people to ensure a nation where child counts. We strive to improve reading levels in hundreds of thousands of children with the help of volunteers.

...the inability to read hits India's poorest the hardest; it leads to entrenched poverty

01

...every child must have a strong foundation in reading irrespective on which side of the social divide she's on

02

...if all early learners read well, they will do well in school and be prepared to bring positive change to all

03

...the fate of a child's future rests on reading

04

...on not just being able to read but read for fun and for meaning.

diverse and inclusive books for all children

Katha has always believed that books play a very crucial role in everyone's life. Still a large population of children in our country struggle to read – a significant proportion of them being first-generation readers. Education of these first-generation readers is complex and challenging. It requires substantially higher commitment and a lot more work. While a wide range of reading material is available to them, it is usually written in a style that is incomprehensible and intimidating. Stories, poems and other literature are not available to a large number of readers with low levels of reading abilities.

In an endeavour to bridge this gap and to draw first-generation readers into the ambit of reading for fun and for meaning, Katha's children's books that focus on Girls, Earth, Equity, Kindness, empower children to forge ahead on their way to reading whilst mastering the challenges of today and shape the world of tomorrow. These books with their high-quality content, and design and layout that match the learning needs of these children, and brings the best of India's 2000 years of literary heritage, from the classical to the contemporary for shared and guided reading, attempt to reach the unreachable child at an affordable price – a Katha way to democratize reading and education!

not a school, a life coach

Education can only bring about change effectively if it is relevant, and that means it must build character and a worldview. With this thought and spirit, Katha Lab School was established in 1990, with just five children. Over the years, it has become a model for high-performing schools that redefine what is possible for children from low-income communities, and has the power and the potential to drive wider systemic reforms. An inclusive learning environment where children can grow into individuals who are sensitive, empathetic, and accepting of differences - be it language, culture or ability, Katha Lab School lays the ground for delivering forward-looking education and helps children keep abreast with the ever-changing world.

The School also works towards imparting entrepreneurship and computer training to students, as well as professional skills development for young professionals and marginalized women from the local communities, part-time academic support to students enrolled in other schools and quality education to children from crèche to Class 12, including children with special needs.

Katha Lab School is built on the philosophy of relevant, holistic development. To ensure we cater to all-round development of children in the school experience, we have created a five-point approach:

- 1 PROGRESSIVE PEDAGOGY
- 2 EMPOWERING EDUCATORS
- 3 STAKEHOLDERS AS PARTNERS
- 4 MAXIMIZING POTENTIALS.
MAXIMIZING RESOURCES
- 5 ACCOUNTABILITY TO LEARNING

“What a lovely bright colourful school. It is great to see the children being encouraged to be creative. And very motivated and energetic teachers. Well done!”

– Mr Mark Westenra, New Zealand High Commission

from education to excellence

The various components that define Katha Lab School while setting it apart from the rest, are:

“Thank you for showing us the terrific work of Katha. The attitude of children and the staff was inspirational.”

– Ms Amanda Horton Martin, Comic Relief

Crèche

Katha believes in giving children limitless opportunities to learn through imagination, creativity and play, while offering parents the peace of mind that comes from knowing that their children are receiving care of the highest standards in a safe, healthy and stimulating environment, and the older siblings the freedom and opportunity to attend classes. The Katha Lab School crèche caters to children 0-3 years of age.

Phulwadi

Katha has always believed in inclusivity, and a special programme at Katha Lab School is dedicated to Children with Special Needs (CWSN). The programme focuses on overall development of differently abled children. In Phulwadi, functional education is imparted along with parallel intervention using allied therapies depending on the needs of the child.

K-12

A full-time school for children of all ages, covering grades 1 through 12. In addition, Kala Nivas, our four arts centre for music, dance, theatre and fine arts, hones the creative skills of children. The sports wing of Katha Lab School Katha Josh, offers children a range of sports facilities.

Katha English Academy (KENGA)

A specialized academy at Katha Lab School that increases the employability prospect of youth from underprivileged backgrounds by training them in conversational as well as written English.

Katha Student Support Centre (KSSC):

A specialized centre that helps students who have moved into formal schools. Mostly they get into government schools which have a low student-teacher ratio. Hence, individual attention on which they thrive in Katha Lab School is missing. Katha makes up for this by providing tutorials to students, thus helping them to stay on in school.

Katha School of Entrepreneurship (KSE)

In making learning relevant to real-life so that there is transition from learning to applying, Katha School of Entrepreneurship is a one-of-a-kind learning centre, which has ideation, innovation and entrepreneurship at its core. Katha Social Work Institute (KaSWI)

A centre that helps children understand social issues and embrace active citizenship through the integrated poverty reduction activities, community action, awareness campaigns and surveys.

curriculum for

An integrated, well-rounded approach to quality learning and exploration forms the bedrock of Katha's educational philosophy. Our vision revolves around the creation of a curious, creative, happy environment where we develop, harness, and polish the inbuilt abilities of the future citizens in the making. Our progressive methodology, honed for over three decades, ensures a learning environment that enables every child to excel, find and follow their passion to fulfil their potential and become the best they can be.

vidduniya, our teaching framework

The theme for the academic year 2016-17 at Katha Lab School was 'Kal, Aaj Aur Kal: Free, Fair and Fearless India'.

All classroom activities, modules and lesson plans were developed around this theme. Children learnt to appreciate the many tribes in India and the world, their habitat, ethnicity, culture, beliefs, arts and crafts. They also learnt about tribal model houses, jewellery, herbarium, bookmarks, totems, seals, masks, etc.

The main ideas covered through the academic curriculum were as follows:

LAND AND CONTROL OVER RESOURCES

Concepts of area and density, Zamindari system, money lending and interest. Scientific and geographical concepts like flora and fauna, rain, ecosystem, floods and natural calamities, etc.

CONSTITUTION AND GOVERNMENT

Constitutional rights of the tribals, government schemes and programmes, denotified tribes, tribal history from pre-historic to modern times, tribals under the British rule.

DISPLACEMENT AND MIGRATION

Tribal migration, factors of migration, consequences of migration, patterns and coping mechanism, atrocities and exclusion.

GOOD HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Tribal habitats and health sciences, nutrition and diseases, food chart, herbal medicine and their methods.

ARTS AND CULTURE

Food culture, dance, arts and crafts, festivals and rituals, utensils, tools, etc.

TODAY'S CHILD TOMORROW'S LEADER

The education of the Adivasi child population. Are we neglecting these children, the future agents of change? The issues and challenges in education of Adivasi children - dropouts, language, curriculum and incentives.

ADIVASI ACTIVISM

Constitutional provisions for the Adivasis, land rights of tribal populations, constitutional amendments and rights, the role of the United Nations, NGOs advocating tribal rights. The overall impact of developmental projects across the country on the Adivasis has often been loss of livelihood, massive displacement, and involuntary migration. Children critically examined how Adivasis are affected and what needs to be done to protect their interests.

school quality enhancement programme (sqep)

schools as colourful learning spaces

While Katha Lab School is the hub of creativity and innovation, it has extended its reach to mainstream the innovation and improve the effectiveness of elementary education in government schools by partnering with South Delhi Municipal Corporation (SDMC) and The Education Alliance (TEA) under School Quality Enhancement Programme. Katha adopted two South Delhi Municipal Corporation schools, in Kilokri Tank and South Ex II, to mainstream its Story Pedagogy.

Katha introduced and implemented integrated module-based curriculum which is aligned with National Curriculum Framework based on the NCERT syllabus. Based on Story Pedagogy, the methodology emphasises on Active Story Based Learning (ASBL) and is a successful classroom tool being used by Katha for the past twenty-eight years. It integrates the important function of enquiry (signified by the “active” in ASBL) into story-based learning.

Through this unique curriculum, an effort is made to make teaching child-centric, creative, engaging and fun in the partner schools. The Four C’s – Curriculum Development, Classroom Design, Continuous Assessment and Community School Linkages – are the four pillars of Katha’s innovative education.

Katha-adopted SDMC South Ex II School has been awarded the Best School Award in Central Zone.

Karan Kumar, a student of class IV in SDMC South Ex II School, has been selected for the Medhavi Pariksha 2017.

In the two partner schools, Katha brought in the following changes:

INFRASTRUCTURE

Neat, clean, safe and secure school premises. The schools have become fun-filled, non-threatening and happy learning spaces for children.

FACILITIES

i love reading creating reader-leaders

reading, a chance for a better life

There are multiple benefits of reading – developing language skills, imagination, empathy, and above all, reading for the sheer joy of reading! But are we guilty of restricting this joy to a privileged few? Ever thought of how our society would transform from within if children from all sections of society were excited about books and learning? In response to the low reading levels of the children in the country, Katha initiated its flagship programme, I Love Reading, in Delhi's municipal government schools and the surrounding slum communities. Today, the programme is operational in 100 government school and 151 slum communities and is catalysing existing resources and energizing structures to generate large-scale improvement in children's ability to read fluently and confidently.

In our endeavour to make learning fun for children on their paths to becoming independent readers, in the year 2016-17, Katha set up 30 vibrant, conducive and dynamic Story Rooms in MCD schools. We also reached out to various communities and schools and strove to increase the reading proficiency in thousands of children – one child at a time. To support the growth and needs of the programme, the continuous development of teaching-learning approaches, methods and materials as well as training were the ongoing activities through the year.

“We had reading-challenged children who did not take any interest in learning. But when we adopted Katha's Story Pedagogy and teaching methodology in the classrooms, children showed keen interest in reading and learning.”

— Smt Sushma Jain, Teacher, Pul Pehladpur, SDMC

the creative components of ilr

literature to literacy

ILR uses Katha's culturally rich storybooks to improve the reading abilities in children. We not only work towards literacy, but go beyond that to help children engage with content.

multi-stakeholder engagement

ILR works with all major stakeholders: children, teachers, principals, community, and the government. This enables us to address the many challenges children face in attending school.

in schools & communities

ILR employs a two-pronged approach of working in both schools and the surrounding communities.

public-private partnership

ILR is a Public-Private Partnership to transform the government school system. We liaise closely with government to enable systemic change.

scalable, replicable

ILR is a replicable model that is designed to be scalable. Katha has successfully demonstrated that the model helps children improve their reading abilities, and is also planning to expand into other states.

reading championships and reading mentors

ILR employs a system of continuous evaluation by way of Reading Championships that measure levels of reading literacy in children. An innovative and motivated team of reading teachers or mentors create reading interest in children.

educating the minds...and hearts

Katha has always believed that education is a process and learning, an ability. The guidance a child requires determines the bond between teacher and student, and this bond enables the nurturing that the students require. Therefore, Katha has, over the years, developed a very specific role for the teachers; those who have the potential of being educators and agents of change. What truly determines our search for teachers is a passion for the cause, to drive the creativity and innovation required to effectively reach out to children from challenging backgrounds.

Each year, Katha teachers are taken through a rigorous programme that includes quality- and assessment-based workshops to ensure that our teachers are always in touch with the most recent pedagogical practices from across the world, and are well aware of innovative teaching-learning ideas that are implementable in their own classrooms.

Through these activities and workshops, we hope that our teachers are ingrained into the 'Katha way', a forward-looking engagement approach with each child. Through the years, this framework has become a vigorous practice for all our teachers in Katha.

in-service training

Katha's teachers are given 160-hours of training each year plus weekend workshops twice per month. The modules for the training cover topics such as early learning curriculum, classroom practices, continuous assessment, community linkages, etc. Katha also conducts 2-day workshops for in-service teachers from other NGOs/low-cost schools.

training for youth reading mentors for ilr-c

Katha's trainers train and give ongoing support to Reading Mentors who help run ILR-C in slum communities.

distance training

Katha has successfully developed a system to impart trainings via a combination of direct training and digital/mobile media. Katha has now launched www.padhopyarse.net, a website offering e-books and teaching-learning material.

katha holistic early learning centre (khel!)

Katha's guiding principle of 'educating the educators' has fostered a culture of transforming a teacher into a 'reflective practitioner' who is herself a thinker, learner and above all a knowledge originator. Katha's teacher-training has helped teachers bring sustainable enjoyment to all children. We train teachers to creatively engage children into learning and bring the classrooms to life. We introduce them to fun ways of teaching using our very own Story Pedagogy and Active Story Based Learning methods.

"The goal of the project is to support teachers in making classrooms more innovative and improving the quality of learning, thereby impacting children in civic body schools, and many more in the near future."

— The Hindu

teacher training in ranchi

Katha trained 90 Ekal Teachers in Ranchi. Conceptually, 'Ekal Vidyalaya' stands for single teacher-based, multi-grade, informal schools operational in Jharkhand and many other states. Ekal teachers are residents of the rural areas in these states. Katha trainers imparted trainings in Story Pedagogy, importance of seating arrangement, building confidence, community interaction, teachers as leaders, and use of teaching-learning material.

the main objectives of this project were:

- To engage with SDMC Trust as a Teacher Training and Knowledge Partner.
- To provide innovative, modified and well-designed training sessions in Ranchi for 90 (30 + 60) teachers of 90 (30 + 60) Ekal Learning Centres.
- To creatively train teachers to engage with children in the mixed age-groups of 6-14 year olds, helping them attain minimum level of learning and bringing classrooms to life by following Katha's Story Pedagogy © and Active Story Based Learning (ASBL) methods.
- Provide Reading Kits to teachers.

highlights

- Katha trained 90 'Ekal teachers' at Ranchi.
- 90 Tamasha Easy Reading Kits were given to the teachers during the training.
- 98% of the teachers who were trained said that Katha's training on Story Pedagogy has helped them manage their classrooms better, and the training in effective use of TLMs has boosted their confidence.

reading carnival at jharsuguda, odisha

Katha strongly believes that if children enjoy reading they will do well and stay in school longer, which will enable them to become inspiring reader-leaders who can lead their families and communities out of poverty. Seeing the low levels of reading amongst first-generation school-goers and their limited exposure to innovative, fun books, Katha organizes Reading Carnivals across the country.

As part of Katha's I Love Reading programme, the Reading Carnivals aim to spread the joy of reading and to bring children into sustainable reading, and thus learning. The programme also hones reading habits in teachers, bringing to them literary creativity that helps enhance students' performance across subjects.

a mega reading carnival was organized for 18 government schools in jharsuguda, odisha, for seven days to promote and create reading interest in children.

More than 1600 children participated in the Reading Carnival.

Workshops and training sessions on reading-based activities on selected themes such as art and craft, film appreciation, music and dance, were organized.

1690 children's books were distributed during the carnival.

Katha's many successes have come through lasting partnerships with like-minded people and organizations, and Katha's outreach programme helps us tap into this highly exciting ecosystem. With a bevy of workshops and interactions, Katha events are a sure way for children and adults to be drawn into the world of books, reading, learning and enjoying!

book release: my big book of dogs

Katha has always believed that stories have the power to transform our lives and the world we live in. With all the burnings, killings and abandonment of dogs, Katha started questioning the existence of compassion that should be an inherent quality in all human beings. And since Katha believes that children are the changemakers, on 14 November 2016, Katha launched My Big Book of Dogs at Katha Lab School. Padma Shri Kathak Guru Ms Shovana Narayan graced the occasion. After the launch, the Kathakaars (storytellers) set out in their Katha Karavan and conducted storytelling sessions for children at various locations in Delhi (India Gate, Jantar Mantar and Select Citywalk).

book release: raza by raza

On Raza Sahab's 95th birthday, on 22nd Feb 2017, a children's book based on Raza Sahab's memories – from a happy childhood on the banks of his favourite river, Narmadaji, to his days in Bombay and Paris – was launched by Katha at the India Habitat Centre. The book combines simple text with spectacular reproductions of many of Raza Sahab's most beloved works that will resonate with young readers. The event was most generously supported by the The Raza Foundation.

words within worlds.

The children of today are impatient to take their rightful place as global citizens. They need to understand their roots so that they can appreciate global cultures. And what better way to learn who they are and where they come from than through stories and poems from their own backyards. Storytelling, creativity and imagination are the most wanted skill-sets for the twenty-first century. It is incumbent upon us to create a new breed of storytellers and writers. This is an urgent and essential responsibility of all educational institutions and educators.

Launched in partnership with CBSE in 2013, Katha's Search for Excellence in Creative Writing helps students use their creativity and imagination to create some great stories, poems and translations. Designed to promote creative writing, illustration and translation skills in children 8-17 year old, the programme has been designed to nurture the creative instincts in India's children and to give them a platform to share their writing and celebrate their work, thereby inspiring generations of future writers.

broad objectives

- 1 Enhance the joy of reading in students so that they become reader-leaders for India and the world tomorrow.
- 2 Sustain this initiative and ensure participation from maximum schools with fair representation of children from diverse background and to bring them on a common platform for equity and equality.
- 3 Create a forum to give exposure to children to have a wide range of global perspectives through the Katha Writers' Workshops with reputed national and international mentors and inspire the participating children to achieve greater creativity.

In its fourth edition, the Search for Excellence with our partnering schools brought in excellent stories and poems from over 2700 students. We held regional Writers' Workshops for the selected students in North, East, West and South zones in October and November 2016.

Through workshops on story writing, the programme helped students use their creativity and imagination to create their own stories. Here's a brief trajectory of the programme.

Step 1: Online submission of stories and poems. Participating schools organize the Search for Excellence in their respective schools. Selected stories are then submitted online to Katha at www.ilovereadin.in.

Step 2: A jury is formed by Katha to screen the online student submissions. The semi-finalists are selected for the four Regional Writers' Workshops, in East, North, West and South zones. At the end of the regional workshops, students submitted their entries for the final round.

Step 3: Following the Regional Writers' Workshops, a team of resource people screen the submissions for Katha Utsav. The finalists, accompanied by their teachers or parents, participate in the workshops with national mentors and attend master classes with international writers and illustrators at the Katha National Utsav in New Delhi.

a celebration of creativity

The Katha Search for Excellence culminated into Katha Utsav and Awards wherein the finalists were divided into groups for their TADA (Think. Ask. Discuss. Act.) workshops with the national mentors.

The children left the sessions with their heads teeming with new ideas and their hearts full of the inexplicable joy of experiencing and expressing the magic of the word. The mentors too came away charged with the energy that children carry - the energy of hope and finding a new generation of writers.

The winning entries were felicitated with awards, and each participant was given a certificate.

ALT21 - APPROACHES TO LANGUAGE TEACHING IN THE 21ST CENTURY

A freewheeling exchange between experimenting educators, parents and creators of children's books, the Approaches to Language Teaching in the 21st Century this year brought together an eclectic forum that discussed the importance of kindness and compassion in today's world. A panel discussion was organized, headed by our Founder-President Geeta Dharmarajan and Executive Director Ms Parvinder Kaur. The esteemed panel included Dr Suman Sachdeva, Technical Director (Education) Care India and Ms Vyjayanthi Sarkar, Founder and Executive Director for Centre for Science of Student. The active panel discussion was followed by an interactive session with all participants, emphasizing on how teaching through stories can bring about lasting values that will make every student a contributing member of society in the long run.
